Taihei: Hey, Ibara, good job!

Ibara: I'm not tired. The boss is more tired than me.

Taihei: I'm worried about you, Boss.

Aka: Do you think I'm training so gently as to be lazy?

Ibara: But, Boss, you were suffering.

Aka: Take care, you don't look good.

Ibara: Huh? *Sound of stomach crunching* Ah...

Aka: Are you hungry?

Ibara: I missed my lunch.

Aka: Makita, do something.

Taihei: Oh, me? Can it be a hot dog?

Ibara: Yes.

Aka: Put some vegetables on it.

Taihei: As you say. *Starts making hot dogs*

Ibara: Boss, can I ask you something?

Aka: What?

Ibara: What does an Aramitama taste like?

Aka: It tastes like a mixture of mud and moss.

Ibara: Was it delicious?

Aka: That's not the reason.

Ibara: Then it's not delicious.

Aka: Why do you look sad? Even if you make a mistake, don't think about eating that.

Ibara: Yes.

Aka: If you want to eat something delicious, there is a good place. The grilled thigh meat there is delicious. If you're interested, I'll take you next time.

Ibara: ...Interested, yes. I understand.

Taihei: Grilled thighs are fine, but for now, eat this. The hot dogs are ready with a salad.

Ibara: Itadakimasu.

Aka: Eat without leaving the vegetables.

Taihei: That's right.
