Her parents' house is a fencing dojo, and she is an expert in naginata and fencing. Nazumi is a childhood friend whose father was a soldier belonging to the same unit. She took care of Nazumi in her childhood, that he lacked emotion and was a "learning freak". Upon being beaten back into a human form (Nazumi's testimony), Nazumi takes on the personality of an ordinary person in his childhood.

During the war, they both lost their parents and lived together. They got married a year after the war ended.

After Nazumi awoke as the "Blue King", she acted as his assistant.

After the establishment of the "Fourth Legal Affairs Bureau", she became a deputy commander and guides the training of his subordinates. Also, she is not good at office work.

[PERSONALITY, CONDUCT]

The first person is "watashi".

Somei Nazumi is "Nazumi-san". Kokujoji Daikaku is "Kokujoji-sama". Polite tone.

Her demeanor is rigid and strict, but her heart is full of compassion. She inspires others with scolding and encouragement, and often guides them on the right path, and contrary to first impressions of her, she does not make any enemies. The person in question cares only a little about the smell of preaching.

She has decided that it is her role and her heart to keep Nazumi above the people. The reason why she became the first vassal of the "Blue King" and the deputy commander of the "Fourth Legal Affairs Bureau" is because she is with Nazumi. Not to criticize or deny it, but an act of seriously trying to keep it in the "genuine category".

[ABILITIES, TACTICS]

She extends the blade of the naginata to turn it into a powerful and amazing weapon. There is also a strengthening of physical ability, and if she gets serious, she can easily break a steel frame, but it usually suppresses her strength.

Kaiden's logic is exquisite, and no one can complain that she is in the position of vice commander despite being a woman.

Furthermore, she can also defend herself by deploying barriers focused on special items.
