

MINI EPISODES: CHILDREN MEETING

TRANSLATION: NARU-KUN / K-PROJECT WORLD

That day, Reisi Munakata was visiting his parents' home for the first time in a long time. He was invited to the birthday of his nephew, Kai Munakata. He managed to handle a complicated schedule like a puzzle and dense like Anko, which Seri Awashima loves, and barely had a three-hour margin.

However, while staying at his parents' house, he didn't feel hard work, and wearing casual clothes like chinese pants and a cashmere sweater, he chatted with his brother, parents, and sister-in-law with alcohol, and Munakata played board games with today's protagonist Kai Munakata and his sister Umi, enjoyed handmade birthday cakes and treats.

He was exactly the "ideal" uncle who came to celebrate his nephew's birthday.

By the way, birthday gifts are neither too cheap nor too expensive, and it brought toys that firmly maintain the current trends and tastes of children.

Kai was so happy that he took his uncle to the room he shared with his sister. Kai loves his uncle from the bottom of his heart because he even nominated him as a birthday guest. The same happened to Umi, an older sister with a slightly more victorious personality than her unassuming younger brother, and the two began reporting the recent situation to Munakata in quick succession.

He's not good at playing, and the athletic competition in kindergarten is coming up soon. Umi complains that she has a bad friend.

On the other hand, Munakata,

"Race time will change dramatically with improved form. I will send you a video explaining the best training method in an easy to understand way, so it is a good idea to practice with it."

And,

"The difficulty of human relationships exists in all societies. Understanding and getting closer to the other person is the most recommended means, but it is also a good way to maintain a certain distance while respecting the other person. The important thing is what you want to do, Umi."

However, he responded to the preschool children seriously.

Honestly, he's saying something pretty difficult and advanced to kids.

However, the sincere attitude of his uncle, who looked at, but never treated them as children, had something to do with children without knowing why. The two mastered it together.

And in the midst of that, they heard that Munakata should not be abandoned.

"Well my dad forgot his lunch the other day so I went to deliver it comfortably.", Umi said.

Munakata's older brother runs a gardening business. He went to a nearby park to bring lunch to his father, who is a brave gardener, in his simple words.

"Oh. Where did you go?"

Munakata replied casually. The so-called "first comment." It was nice.

"Hmm."

He put his hands on his head like a child and tried to remember the word.

"Mipashira Pawa!" He shouted.

"No, it's Mihashira Tower!"

Umi corrected him like an older sister. Munakata was unusually speechless. By the way, her brother also managed the garden on the top floor of the Mihashira tower.

"Did you go to that building? Did you go in alone?"

When Munakata asks his nephews,

"Yes."

"My mom sent me halfway, but we walked comfortably in the garden!"

Kai and Umi answered very easily.

The level is too high to "do it for the first time".

As he always thought, his brother is probably a great player who cannot compare. For him, the neighborhood park and the Mihashira Tower, which has maximum security in central Japan, are just one of the places of work.

"So, were you okay? Did you deliver his lunch without delay?"

When curiosity arose and Munakata asked,

"Yes, but when I was coming home, I got a little lost. Then I met a very big old man at the pond!"

Umi responds. Munakata sighed.

"Was he a very large old man on the rooftop of the Mihashira tower?"

There is only one person like that.

"Yes. I thought he was a scary person, but when I told him that I was lost, he kindly helped me."

Umi says it's nice and traumatic.

"Hey, and he gave us candy."

"Yes. He gave us a cup of tea in a small house. The tea was a bit bitter, but the sweets were very good!"

Umi explained. In other words, the tea was served in a remote tea room.

"Then he called the guys who were wearing rabbit masks and sent us to where my mom was waiting."

"Then we say goodbye to the old man."

"But when I look back, it wasn't there anymore. When I got home, I don't think it was a dream because I had the candy that he gave me as a souvenir."

The two try to confirm each other. The way of meeting is like a ghost or a hermit in folk tales.

"Well, unexpectedly, it may be that kind of person."

Munakata gently loosened his cheeks.

Reisi Munakata left his parents' house exactly at the scheduled time. He says goodbye while looking at the clock.

"Now, do I have a meeting with him after this? Let's go back to headquarters and put on clothes that aren't rude. It's a good story too."

He laughed out loud.

At that moment, the gentle uncle's face turned into the boss of "Scepter 4", who maintains the security of the city.