

MINI EPISODES: AWASHIMA, DOMYOJI AND THE DENTIST

TRANSLATION: NARU-KUN / K-PROJECT WORLD

After a hard day, Seri Awashima removed her makeup, showered, dried her hair, put on her nightwear, and sat on a burgundy cushion when she returned to the bedroom. She sighed deeply. When she looked at the clock on the wall, it was already around midnight. It was a very brave time from a cosmetic point of view to have a snack from now on.

Awashima struggled for a moment, but...

(Slowness is also important for staying motivated.)

She told herself that, leaving herself a little guilty, and she headed for the refrigerator. She opened the freezer door and pulled out "Anko Bar Finest Premium" from inside. This is a limited edition item purchased online and is no longer available online.

There are other ice creams that use red bean paste, but in most cases, the taste and sweetness of red bean paste gets caught in the cold, and many of them are not enough for people who want to try pasta of red beans to your taste and heart content.

However, the moment you eat this "Azuki Bar Finest Premium", the sweetness that makes you feel like eating raw bean paste spreads in your mouth, making it an extremely satisfying dish for Awashima, the pasta master. of beans. She received 20 bottles, so she was looking forward to a bottle every day.

Awashima took the bag from it, took a bite, smiled and bit her mouth...

The moment of bliss turned into a heavy, melancholic feeling with a sharp pain in the hood.

"...!"

The bean paste bar has removed the filling from the tooth. That is why she should go to the dentist in the near future.

Her family's dentist was a bit far from her parents' house, so Awashima found a new reputable dentist near the bedroom, she made an appointment in advance, and two days later, she took half a day off.

It was the first time in five years that she went to the dentist.

After going through the automatic door, the receptionist entered the waiting room and Awashima opened her eyes.

"What, Lieutenant?"

There was a face she knew.

"Lieutenant, do you have cavities too?"

Domyoji, who was flipping through the magazines he was provided with, looked up and said with a bright smile.

"Oh, no, I have some tooth filling."

"Oh, that's right. It seems to be a cavity bacteria."

To be honest, it's a bit awkward meeting people from the same workplace in these places and the opposite sex, but Domyoji doesn't seem to mind at all.

He looked at her with a puppyish look full of expectation, like "Let's talk until it's our turn." Awashima smiled and sat next to Domyoji because she couldn't turn right and get out.

They then had an incoherent conversation.

"At first, I had a toothache and I didn't understand why, so I thought it was a strange disease. So when I checked with Hidaka, they told me it was a cavity and I made an appointment. But a dentist looks like this."

"Is this your first time visiting a dentist?"

"It's my first time. No, I wonder if he injected me. I'm not really good with injections."

She notices that the conversation did not begin gradually.

"Domyoji. Can I ask you something?"

"What?"

"You don't know what kind of treatment you will receive at the dentist?"

"What are he going to do? Isn't it normal to diagnose and prescribe medications?"

Oh, he thought it was wrong. However, at that moment, he heard a voice calling "Domyoji-san", and Domyoji greeted Awashima with a bright smile and entered the doctor's office. When Awashima was looking for a while,

"Doriru! Doriruu!"

She heard a voice screaming from within. Like a quietly limited bird.

From that day on, "Scepter 4" began to see Domyoji, who desperately brushed his teeth with tears every time he ate rice.